He was confident that he could live as a musician after getting to know the tool. Alfyy Rev always contains Indonesian national songs and musical elements from a number of tribes in Indonesia, such as Bali and Batak, which are relevant to today's music. He integrated electronic music (EDM) and traditional musical elements into the national songs of the country. Alfyy argues that the combination of EDM music with local culture will make Indonesia better known through these EDM music media. When asked about adding Gamelan instruments, he argued that edm songs with the inclusion of Gamelan music elements will be easier for many people, especially Indonesians, to listen to and acceptable. Alfyy Rev also often inspires many young Indonesians with his musical work, which is never absent when it comes to presenting nationalist nuances and regional culture. In addition to his ability to process music - music of the EDM genre - Alfyy Rev also has expertise as a cinematographer and also as a song composer who uses LaunchpadPro media as a means to appreciate all his musical works, so that he was nicknamed Launchpadder Indonesia. Unlike other DJs who use EDM (Electronic Dance Music) instruments. Launchpad, this tool is rectangular with multiple box buttons inside. In addition to the ability to mix, Launchpad can also be set as you like, and the resulting sound is more unique and clear than EDM. Garuda Indonesia, Indonesia's largest airline, considered Alfyy Rev's work with his passion for lifting national songs. He arranged several national and regional songs, some of which are used by Garuda Indonesia to be played when the plane enters the or should go ashore. He is currently working on a 12-song arrangement consisting of eight national songs four regional songs during the garuda indonesia flight. Alfyy was also highlighted by the international media, the BBC. The BBC even made videos specifically for him. Gigi Band Trans7 Controversy His success in arranging the national song with EDM music must get advantages and disadvantages from the Indonesian people themselves. For on the 73rd anniversary of Indonesian independence, Alfyy Rev made a work as his sacrifice for the country. Alfyy created the cover of the national anthem of Indonesia Raya in a different style than usual. His work, however, reaped the pros and cons, as some people argued that Alfyy violated Article 8 of Government Decree No. 44 of 1958 on the use of the national anthem of Indonesia Raya. The agreement has sparked controversy among Indonesians. In his work, Alfyy combines elements of electronic dance music (EDM) with gamelan instruments while composing Indonesian Raya songs. Although widely viewed by millions of viewers, the arrangement video of the song is considered to have changed the moral values of the original song. But the work received support from various musicians in the country. Musicians like Anji Manji and Addie M.S. actually considered the work of Alfyy Rev is a form of concern and work of millennials towards the Indonesian nation. It is no obstacle for Alfyy to continue working so far and still by playing several cover songs such as Official Song Asian Games Games His proud performance in July 2017, Alfyy Rev represented young Indonesian musicians with the opportunity to perform in London, UK. He appeared in London at the invitation of the Indonesian Embassy, which was bridged and supported by the Ministry of Education and Culture of the Republic of Indonesia. The event was called Indonesian Weekend, which took place in Potters Fields Park, London.In the event called Indonesian Weekend, DJ Alfyy managed to surprise the visitors by arranging the national songs he processed into music - typical music from EDM. In addition, several traditional musical instruments such as gamelan, flute and other regional musical instruments were included in the game. The event, which took place in London's Potters Field Park, received special attention from locals who deliberately visited. Not only Indonesians who were there, but also the locals of London were immersed in the peaceful atmosphere of EDM music arranged by DJ Alfyy. In addition, Alfyy Rev was invited to the event because he is the only composer and launchpadder in Indonesia who has arranged the National Song version of EDM and also contains elements or instruments typical of Indonesia, such as gamelan sounds, flutes and other regional musical instruments.
